ABOUT THE FIRM

Archeus Law is a boutique law firm established in 2016, specializing in contract management advisory, project disputes and mining regulatory and transactional advisory.

As a boutique law firm, we understand that in a rapidly changing legal market, it is expedient to identify innovative solutions for complex technical issues and implement effective strategies in a time bound and efficient manner. We are proud to say that our clients, whether in the domestic or international market, receive high-quality end-to-end service.

We offer specialized services in diverse industry sectors such as:

- Conventional and Renewable Energy;
- Public Utility Infrastructure, such as Highways, Bridges, Ports, Logistic Parks and Health Infrastructure;
- Urban Development Infrastructure, such as Smart Cities, Metro Rail, Rapid Transit Systems and City Sewage Strategic Tunneling Projects;
- Engineering and Machinery, Industrial and Manufacturing;
- Metals and Mining;
- FinTech;
- Regulatory and Corporate Governance.

Our team of highly motivated and experienced professionals possess a thorough understanding of the domestic and international legal and regulatory framework. In view thereof, we provide stellar services in the areas of commercial litigation as well as international commercial arbitration, cross border disputes and disputes arising under bilateral treaties and have successfully represented our clients in premier arbitral institutions such as the ICC, SIAC, HKIAC and the LCIA.

We at Archeus Law also have extensive experience in white collar defense and government investigations, advising clients facing interrogations by regulatory enforcement authorities.

Our strong portfolio of clients consist of various government bodies engaged in infrastructure projects, leading domestic and international project developers, EPC contractors, and international banks. We have grown strategically to respond to the needs of our clients in markets across the Indian sub-continent, South East Asia, Australia, M.E.N.A (Middle East North Africa) and Africa.

CORE VALUES

At Archeus Law, our core values are the cornerstone of our identity and the guiding principles that shape our practice. KEY PRACTICE AREAS

"The team structure at Archeus Law is lean providing direct access to partners and limits the number of attorneys involved in a file. Availability and quick turnaround are some of their key strengths. A knowledgeable and professional team which possesses expertise and professional knowledge in all aspects of construction law and project management, extremely attentive to detail and efficient in time management without sacrificing quality in successfully overcoming many challenges in a cost efficient manner Good project advisory and dispute resolution team. Focused on risk and protecting client interest."

-SUCG

"They are proactive and solutions oriented!!! Highly recommend them."

-KEPCO KPS

Archeus Law has been successfully advising various state and private sector clients, including multinational clients, in the infrastructure and EPC space, in day-to-day contract management and pre-dispute advisory services to stakeholders across the spectrum such as contractors, employers, developers and other intermediaries.

A. INDUSTRY SECTOR WORK:

- Commercial Contracting
- PPP and Concession-based-DBFOT Projects
- Traditional, Turnkey (design and build) and EPC Projects
- Thermal Power Plants and Co-Gen Plants
- Energy (Concession and Production sharing projects)
- Power Supply and Purchase Agreements as well as Offtaker Agreements
- Operation and Maintenance Agreements
- Plant Design and Build Projects
- Environmental Management
- General project performance control and supply chain advisory

B. FRONT-END PROJECT ADVISORY WORK:

- Contract Structuring
- Negotiation, Drafting, and Associated advisory work

- Contract Management
- Project feasibility and delay risk analysis

This comprises of a complete and holistic “tender-to-commissioning” scope of bid assessment, support, day-to-day advice on delivery controls and performance risks and preparation, “sense checks” and management of claims and defenses, emergency advisory involvement in the event of defaults and unforeseen disruptions, advising termination strategies and contractually regulated dispute resolution (namely, neutral evaluation, contractual adjudication, expert determination and DAB/ DRB tribunal hearings.

We also aid in the structuring of global cross-border and domestic corporate transactions including investment funding, mergers and acquisitions.

C. BACK-END REPRESENTATION, ADVOCACY & TRIBUNAL WORK:

- International arbitration, DAB/DRB, Mediation, Leading Counsel and Co-counsel roles
- Special Counsel (multi-jurisdictional representation limited to project-led technical and commercial issues)
- Sole and Party/Chair Arbitrator roles
- Advice on evidence, as well as on the merits of the claim/claims.
- Advice on contractual controls and the events of non-performance
- Advice and support on the preparation of the claim and associated submissions
- Advice and support on infrastructure contractual and (external or independent) alternative dispute resolutions

"Team of professionals, full of knowledge and depth in understanding of the requirements of all aspects of construction law and project management. Their advisory and opinion possess total clarity and direction. They handhold the client while negotiating the path to project execution with minimum risk. Wish them all the best."

-BSPC

D. EXTERNAL LEGAL CONSULTANTS IN THE EPC SPACE:

Engineering Procurement and Construction (“EPC”) contracts are highly elaborate arrangements containing varied facets wherein the role of the contractor is significant towards the execution of projects.

The requirements of specialised, timely and hands-on legal services become critical due to the complexities and intricacies of the legal/regulatory regime and the peculiarities of the sector in general. Considering their nature, the requirement of expert legal services becomes vital.

The Archeus Law experience is one where such services are desirable for all stages of the project – from inception to completion and eventual discharge of the contracts. To enlarge upon this, we have broadly divided the EPC contractors’ works into three stages, discussing the positive role of the external legal consultants in each stage:

STAGE 1: PRE-CONTRACT

Sowing the seeds of success

Prior to the execution of the contract, Archeus plays an important role in assisting legal/contract departments in negotiating and finalising the framework of the contractual arrangements between the project proponent/owner, as well as sub-contractors for various parts of the EPC contractors’ scope of work.

In India, there is jurisprudence relating to the interpretation of various aspects of contracts.

“Professional, knowledgeable and efficient!!! The team at Archeus Law handled our arbitration proceedings expeditiously, keeping our best interests into consideration.”

-ISGEC

“Archeus Law consistently provides legal solutions which are commercially and legally sound, tailored to meet the exigencies of complex business situations!!!”

-MASTEK

Team of professionals, full of knowledge and depth in understanding of the requirements of all aspects of construction law and project management. Their advisory and opinion possess total clarity and direction. They handhold the client while negotiating the path to project execution with minimum risk. Wish them all the best.

-SPC (Beijing)

For instance:

- provisions relating to contractual milestones;
- provisions relating to contract price and/or taxation
- the rights and obligations of each party and the reciprocity of each parties' obligations to the other;
- variations and extras;
- change in scope;
- dispute resolution mechanisms

Each of the aforementioned aspects, and many more, would be affected by the stipulations of Indian law – many of which may be unique and distinct from other jurisdictions. This is constantly evolving as well – for instance, interpretation of clauses related to changes in law, damages, restrictive covenants, seats of arbitration and governing laws etc. have undergone important changes in the last five (5) years (from 2022) and consequently, some of the ‘standard-form’ contracts presently in use by EPC contractors would require revision.

We have often observed that parties tend to either incorporate international standard-form contracts with only a few customisations, or adapt a form pressed upon by another party – usually the project proponent. However, such practices may not be in the best interests of the EPC contractor or, may result in ambiguities during the course of execution.

It is highly advisable for specialised legal practitioners, like Archeus, to be involved during the negotiation and finalisation of such arrangements to ensure that the interests of the EPC contractors are maintained, points of differences are resolved and vagueness is kept to a minimum.

Moreover, Archeus also plays a major role in advising EPC contractors towards the best mechanism to set-up their establishments for the project and to understand and negotiate the regulatory framework governing the same.

STAGE 2: DURING THE TERM OF THE CONTRACT

*A “second pair of eyes” for smooth contract management
& timely course correction*

During the course of the execution of the work, an EPC contractor faces a variety of issues on a day-to-day basis related to the following:

- interpretation of the clauses of the contract or the sub-contracts
- issues arising out of changes in the scope of works, which may not be anticipated during the drafting of the contractual arrangements
- contractual defaults committed by a party or acts of prevention or omission
- issues related to legal/regulatory compliances
- disputes vis-a-vis the project proponent or sub-contractors

Archeus Law assists EPC contractors as and when such issues arise in order to protect the best interests of the client. In our experience, such issues if handled incorrectly, may lead to escalation of disputes and thus our timely involvement evidently led to avoidance, or pre-emption of such potential areas of dispute. Rendering assistance for compliance-related issues would also help to avoid statutory liabilities.

Moreover, another area of assistance offered by Archeus Law has been the proper maintenance of site records, which are vital particularly during disputes.

"Very satisfied with Archeus Law's commitment to our overall requirements. Ranjit was very helpful in explaining various alternatives and solutions that we hadn't even thought about!!!"

-Galaxy Gold Mines

"Archeus Law has been providing legal and end-to-end support for our business objectives and have been successfully representing our interests in issues pertaining to general project advisory and arbitration on a wide range of projects."

-NCC

"A well co-ordinated team which possesses expertise and professional knowledge in all aspects of construction law and project management. They render practical advice for different situations by adopting a pragmatic approach. "

-SEPCO III

"We want to express our sincere gratitude to Archeus Team under Ranjit Prakash, Anshuman Pande and Abhinav Raghuvanshi for their hardwork, sound advice and unflinching support during the entire process."

-GPT Infraprojects Ltd.

Timely vetting and advice on site records, particularly correspondences, registers etc. assist in strengthening the case of a party in cases of disputes. Archeus Law prepares and vets the replies to all contentious communications received by their clients from owners or sub-contractors, that arise during the course of the term of the contract. The comprehensive responses thus prepared, serve to fortify the case of the client in the short term as well as in cases of disputes that may arise at a later stage of the contract, wherein the stand taken by the client initially, always comes under close scrutiny.

Apart from these benefits, another major benefit to the client accrues in the form of initial advise from Archeus to determine the course in which the client's dealing vis-a-vis the counterparty should follow.

To specify, if particular grounds are to be taken as against a particular counter-party, Archeus advises the client to conduct its business against that counterparty in a manner that will ensure that the grounds for future legal action or defence are firmly established right from the very inception of the issues, which would be evident from the site records.

Thus, the contract management services of Archeus Law directs focused and targeted work execution by the client.

Needless to state, the above also ensures that a substantial body of documentary evidence, in favour of the stand to be taken by the client is in place, if and when the dispute escalates.

Moreover, Archeus Law continues to advise the client on day-to-day contractual interpretation matters, which also ensures that the client's actions are guided and informed by the powers and limitations arising from such interpretations.

As against statutory authorities, our clients have benefitted from our insights and experience of the legal/regulatory regimes and our assistance into the client's project management issues also makes the task of representing the client before such holistic authorities easier.

In cases where the projects are affected by delays and other issues, Archeus Law advises and drafts remedial requisitions based on the best available records of the client in a timely manner, ensuring that extension requests and future claims as against employers get strengthened. Conversely, in cases where the client is to consider extension of time requests or requests for escalations, the firm provides the best possible legal remedies to ensure that no unwarranted advantage is taken by the counter party due to errors of omission/commission.

Archeus also works with a number of experts dealing with technical analysis of delays, as well as quantum experts, to ensure timely advice and strategising. In discharging its contract management services, the firm is best placed to assist the client in reacting swiftly to any unforeseen adverse events.

Finally, Archeus' involvement with all aspects of the project execution, makes it uniquely placed to advise the client on the strengths and weaknesses of its case, in the event of dispute escalation.

"We consulted with Archeus Law on two different occasions and each one of them was handled with utmost care and professionalism. The team is proactive, efficient and provides practical advise keeping the need of business in mind!!!"

-Andritz

STAGE 3: POST-EXECUTION

Protecting what is earned

Post execution, when parties to the contract seek to fulfil all pending obligations, it is Archeus Law's endeavour to conclusively close the project without any liabilities against the client. However, invariably at this stage it is seen that project proponents seek to park-aside past issues until the work has been completed. This is the stage wherein disputes arise and Archeus Law has assisted its clients in:

- evaluating the basis of the claims of the EPC contractor and the counter-claims of the other parties from a legal perspective, including the strengths and weaknesses of the case
- examining the merits of various legal courses of action
- taking immediate steps to protect the interests of the clients
- representing the client in dispute-resolution proceedings, where unavoidable

In India, as well as for international projects, specialised knowledge of the jurisprudence of contractual and construction laws is required, not only to assist the client in such scenarios, but also to put forward the best possible case of the client before a dispute resolution forum.

While Archeus is happy to state that it has played a vital role in bridging the gap between the client's expectations and the forum's understanding, its task is made easier in a scenario wherein the firm has been involved in all stages of the project. This is because all accumulated knowledge of the practitioner about the particular project aligns with the advisory and assistance offered during the first two stages.

"A knowledgeable and professional team which possesses expertise and professional knowledge in all aspects of construction law and project management, extremely attentive to detail and efficient in time management without sacrificing quality in successfully overcoming many challenges in a cost efficient manner; who have a very solid understanding of the requirements of our project business and are always on hand to deliver well thought out advice as well as providing excellent guidance, planning and strategic, tactical thinking."
